

kemi

Finding a cost-effective working space is vital when you're starting out in business.

There's rarely enough room at home. The solution is the Kemi.

Here's a home-office that's spacious enough to accommodate two people, yet not so large that it would look out of place in the average garden. Best of all, you can spill out onto the veranda when the weather's fine.

Bliss. No boss and all that sunshine.

rauma

Entertaining revolves around the Rauma whatever the weather.

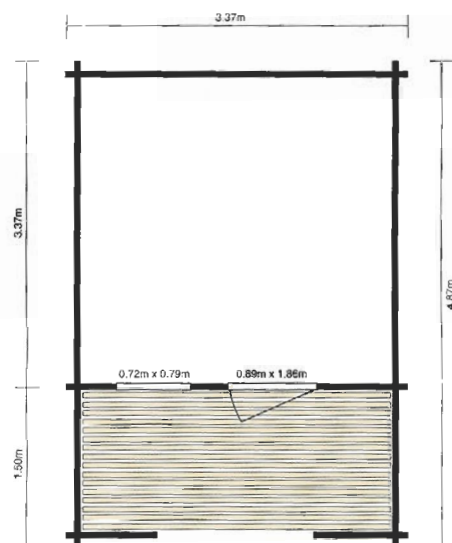

Finnish it may be, but this log cabin has the British climate in mind.

When the sun beats down, you retire to the shade of the Rauma's spacious covered veranda. On warm summer evenings, the breeze flows in through wide double doors. If clouds gather, you can lay your table beneath the shelter of the veranda canopy.
